BMW CCA Central California Chapter Gets Jump On BMW Birthday!

It is public record (at least from my sources) that BMW was officially incorporated on March 7, 1916. Jumping the gun by five days, members of the BMW CCA's Central California Chapter combined their regular monthly meeting with a BMW 100th birthday celebration on March 2 in Fresno, California. The Chapter honored the Ultimate Driving Machine's birthday with fanfare and high-caloric cake, and then treated the partygoers to videos depicting BMW's history as well as the glory days of BMW's racing heritage.

Members of the Central California Chapter are all 'fired-up' to take part in an even bigger BMW celebration in Monterey this August: the Legends of the Autobahn, BMW CCA Festorics, and Oktoberfest 2016. See you there!

Valentine's Sweetheart Brunch

By Jeff Willers

Ten couples made their way to the chapter's annual Valentine's Day brunch held at Visalia's renowned Vintage Press Restaurant. Clearing skies and warming weather were a prelude to a three-course brunch of specialty breads, fresh fruit and entrée choices. The Vintage Press' menu never fails to please. All ladies received a long stem red rose as they arrived.

After pleasant table conversations, the group was lead in a game of Guess Whose BMW whereby members secretly wrote the year and model of their first BMW on a card. Attendees then had to match the car with the owner. Who knew that Mary B's first BMW was a Bavaria or that Carol Neilson's was a 525 or that one member has a '31 Ford pickup stashed in his garage.

Door prizes featured a Vintage Press Gift certificate, Tulare County Symphony tickets, two sets of 6 BMW logo wine glasses, a bottle of Silkwood wine, and a free autocross entry. But the top prize was a necklace donated by Eddy from Tick Tock Jewelers.

Thanks to Marilyn and Mary B for putting this day together. It was a fun celebration. Don't miss it next year.

'Targeting' Diversity...

As shown below, several of our chapter members met at the Firing Line last month to practice their skills.

Jacob Belemjian, proprietor of the Firing Line and son of Chapter member Greg Belemjian kindly arranged a private session for our group. Our chapter is made up of individuals who share many interests that don't necessarily involve cars. One doesn't necessarily have to go to a race track to have a good time! We may do this again!

A few words about the Das Rad...

As many of you are VERY aware, over the past year or so most of the Central Cal Chapter members have been receiving the Das Rad electronically via email. There was a rather inconvenient manner that a member could 'opt in' to also get hard print copies via traditional mail.

This presented several problems that have ultimately resulted in a quantum change in our delivery method.

We are, for now, going back to the 'old way' and you will be receiving a for real, hard printed copy of the Das Rad in the mail.

There is just something about holding a magazine or newspaper and flipping thru the pages and not having to worry about your batteries going dead halfway through an article.

Yes, we will be still sending out the Das Rad electronically for you 'techies' out there, but at least we won't have to worry about an electro-magnetic pulse from sunspots ruining our read! Enjoy! (ed.)

Rick's Ramblings.....by Rick Kapheim

Save the manuals!!!!

I was talking to one of the head guys at a large Porsche dealer in the southern part of the state recently and he indicated that they order 100% PDK's (Dual Clutch Manual-Automatics) for their stock cars for sale. As this man was telling me this the dealership was delivering a striking blue Cayman with a manual trans. to a person who ordered it. Only 15% of Porsche sales are manual as it is. BMW is not doing any better. So is the future bleak for those of us who have a restless left foot? Well I am an optimist by nature. I do not try to forecast the future anymore (This years political circus with both the Democrats and the Republicans has cured me of that!), but I do look for signs of hope. I know that there will be a progression of technological progress that will lead to alt-fuel cars -to antigravity devices (Yea-Flying cars at last)-to transport devices that atomize us and send us where (Kirk to beam up!). In the meantime, I just want to enjoy my cars. Ford has a new high performance Focus that is coming out shortly that uses a manual only. Porsche has had the GT-4 that is manual only and is coming out with a special 911 edition that is manual only. Shelby Mustangs are manual only. Of course many BMW's are available with a manual as are other cars. I was with a person recently driving my car and he noted that I seemed to have fun shifting. This person has never experienced a manual and was intrigued by the process. I explained to my friend the joy I got from actively shifting the gears as I drove. This is all we can do: Buy them, drive them, and educate people along the way. On to other things: I had to let go of one of my cars yesterday. For us cars become part of us that other people do not understand (No: We are not crazy!). I think it is because we spend so much time with them that they become part of our family. This car was not going far, however (Daughter and Son-in-Law) so I will be seeing it again and the fact that I have its replacement in the garage helps my sensitive soul. It constantly amazes me that as I am breaking as I see the yellow light way ahead others are speeding up just so they can wear their breaks sooner! I do not get it. I am always going on about car colors (or lack of them) at dealers and on the streets. I now have two white vehicles as our primary cars in the Kapheim fleet. Ah-so much for my rambling!!!! Can't wait to test drive the new M-2! A manual of course. I will give you a report. The flying cars and the re-atomizing/ transports can wait till another day. Drive safe, but just drive.
